The conference theme is: Creating a Healing Community: Partnerships to Improve the Care of American Indian/Alaska Native People. In a rapidly changing world, this theme is timely for all aspects of nursing relating to American Indian people as we forge partnerships to assist us in improving their health and well being. Nurses will have the opportunity to engage in dialogue, learning and discovery. This conference will attract 100 to 200 participants and will include presentations on research, practice, and education.

We need your support to make this event the best we can offer. We are seeking donations from educational and health care organizations that promote, value and support cultural competence within their health care environment and want to learn about American Indian health. Sponsorships can be tailored to meet your needs and may include a variety of levels. Please review the following information. If you have any questions, just contact NANAINA. In addition, we would like to invite you and members of your organization to join us in the celebration of nurses who provide care for American Indian people.
